146 YORK, Penny (Hks. 270 var., or B. M. Cat. "Norman Kings," pl. LVII, 7). This curious piece, which has been struck from dies of extremely rough workmanship, has been noted by Mr. Cyril Brooke in his "Norman Kings," vol. I, LXXXI, where he says this "perhaps is the work of a forger's dies, which had been obliterated by the two lines cut on the obverse, and again used for striking false coins." It is only fair to Mr. Brooke to say that one is more inclined to accept the probable correctness of his suggestion than any theory based on an assumed obv. legend, which is practically illegible. It reads on the rev. +MARTI[N ON] EV . ., usual cross moline, broken in half, but held together within a rim.

~~From the Aberdeen collection (lot 667), 1888.~~ This curious type was the subject of an interesting paper by Mr. Andrew at the Brit. Num. Society's rooms, 15 July, 1908, in which he suggested that this type was issued by Robert de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, during Stephen's captivity in the summer of 1141, when, in consequence of the Empress Matilda being in possession of London, the Earl would be precluded from obtaining official dies and would be thrown upon his own resources for supplies of currency. He would no doubt employ the local seal-cutter to sink the dies, and this would explain the unusual character of both workmanship and lettering. He identified the moneyer as "Walkelin the Moneyer of Derby" referred to in contemporary deeds.

 For arguments in favour of the attribution of this type to the cousin of Stephen, see the paper by Mr. L. A. Lawrence in Num. Chron., III, S. vol. X, p. 42, seqq. On the other hand, Mr. W. J. Andrew (Brit. Num. Society, Session 1907, 17 July) is in favour of assigning the coin to the son of Stephen when knighted at York. From the Dimsdale (lot 224), Durrant, Bergne (lot 336), Brice and Montagu (lot 359) collections.

In the Num. Circ. (Dec. 1914) Mr. Andrew again brings forward many reasons for assigning this issue to the Son of Stephen.

 The only other specimen known is in the National Collection, and is from the same dies as Mr. Roth's coin. "Thomas Filius Ulvieti," Alderman of York, is mentioned in the Pipe Roll of 1130 A.D. Mr. L. A. Laurence wrote a paper in Num. Chron. III S. vol. X, p. 42 seqq. in favour of the attribution of this type to Eustace Fitzjohn, and in this he is supported to a certain extent by Mr. G. C. Brooke (B. M. Cat. "Norman Kings, vol. I. CXIII), who says: "The Eustace coins of the 'Full-figure' type must be assigned to a date hardly later, perhaps even earlier, than 1141. Eustace, son of Stephen, was knighted in 1147 or 1149, hence he may be assumed to have been born about 1130, and to have been at the most very little more than ten years old when these coins were struck. The representation of a knight in full armour cannot depict the son of Stephen before 1147 or 1149." This piece is from the Maynard, 1885 (lot 20), and Rashleigh, 1909 (lot 624) sales. In further confirmation of his discovery that this type belongs to Matilda and not to the Earl of Warwick, Mr. Andrew points out that as this type was issued from Bristol, London, Winchester, Lincoln, Canterbury and Stamford, it proves his case, for he says: "What Earl could strike all over England?" And it may further be asked whether there is any known authentic case of a person in authority, whether king or subject, using a territorial title upon a coin to the entire exclusion of a personal name?

EARL HENRY (afterwards HENRY II).

110 CHICHESTER (Num. Chron. vol. IV, p. 146), HENRILVS, bust in helmet and armour to right, with sceptre; rev. + W[IL]LEM ON CRST, cross fleury upon a square, with concave sides terminating in fleurs, and enclosing four pellets (Hks. 255 = W. J. A. XV), fine, and of extreme rarity, if not unique, but cracked at edge [Pl. III] 1

 In reference to this extraordinary piece, Mr. W. J. Andrew wrote to Mr. Bernard Roth: "It is not one of Henry I, but belongs to the class of so-called Baronial coins of the next reign. Mr. L. A. Lawrence has one identical with it, both obverse and reverse, except that the obv. legend is "WILLELMVS"; yours is one of the most interesting in the whole series." Mr. Andrew may be right in his assumption, but as a sale catalogue is not the place to discuss the correct or incorrect attribution of a coin, we must leave the solution to the purchaser, who may or may not be disposed to accept Mr. Andrew's suggestion. This coin is from the Hollis, Dymock, 1858 (lot 184), Murchison, 1866 (lot 27), Whitbourn, 1869 (lot 145), Neck, and Webb, 1894 (lot 27), and Montagu, 1896 (lot 291) sales.
